I hope you also will keep posting. After Hutch-- left, the ng lost its natural madness. It used to have a certain blend amongst the mad posters, that gave ala its own particular spice, that made me fall in love with it. Some of it went away when Beth left, and Annie stopped posting, and certainly, the loss of The Hutch-- (tm) was also a definate sad thing. Being neatly as redicolous, you seem to fill his spot well. While Hutch wasnt really very original, and roughly kept reposting the same stupidity over and over as he used to, like if he was following some receipe for posting by his proxy - or something like that - you provide something slightly more interessting; each of your posts have its own unique flavour of stupidity. Each one, uniquely banal on its own accord. Reborn original moronity - rightly owning itself, by each and every post. I want to thank you. Beeing a nobody, like Hutch-- is easy, but beeing a constantly changing, flexible moron, as funny one as you, takes a certain kind of effort.

Many thanks!

Oh God! The irony!

Its art god damn it! Hard work!
