As someone pointed out earlier, Angra's post was half true. I was posting to the rabid objection that neither you nor Anders posted here encouraging people to head over to a VB newsgroup and talk about how great Delphi was. While it was not you and Anders, Anders did do it. Angra should have used OR in his if statement instead of AND. I think we can also wrap your constant high strung nature in a while loop while we are at it <g>.

Anyway, I don't want to get in one of those groovy syntax wars with you and the TeamB folks, where you dissect sentences in Clintonesque fashion, such as the whole C++Builder open letter and what the meaning of the word "promise" is, etc.

I frankly don't post enough to care. I just stuck my nose in knowing that you would snap back. I do get a kick out of how riled up you get though <g>.
