After 23 years as an independent programmer, most of them with Turbo Pascal and Delphi, I'm taking a full-time job, doing straight C on embedded Linux. I start a week from Monday (Jan 22) and will probably stop monitoring the borland newsgroups, as I'll have to find time for a two hour round trip commute.

I'll probably kill the business phone, but I'll keep the midnightbeach web site and all its content. I bought Internic's longest term last time my domain came up for renewal, so the midnightbeach email address will be valid for a good long time, and perhaps forever – I'll always be happy to hear from readers, though my response time will suffer.
