Any idea who takes responsibility for these things? Nick? Michael Swindell? Jim Douglas?

I don't know that I'd precisely use the term "takes responsibility." The people that I know who care about this don't seem to be able to change things by themselves. I haven't precisely figured out where the obstruction is. IMHO, the change needs to come from the top.

So folks who want to communicate their concerns about the terms to CodeGear might indeed try starting with Jim Douglas.

In his first blog posting he said:
