I'm working with these components quite some time and they helped me a lot making my applications use multiple threads. Having the sources I was able to still use them with D2007 and will do as long as possible.

I know these components are no longer supported, but they are quite stable and definitely worth the money (I suggest to buy the sources!).

Uwe,

Thanks for the feedback. I haven't made up my mind about them, but as the current price is US$49, I may well get them.
