

Buttons on a page

Source: <http://coding.derkeiler.com/Archive/Delphi/comp.lang.pascal.delphi.misc/2005-04/msg00261.html>

- From: "fatboylives" <google@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: 16 Apr 2005 04:25:01 -0700
-

Hi all.

I am trying to create a page with rows of buttons on it that fill the page. What I mean is I want buttons to fill rows with evenly sized buttons that go from edge to edge all the same width (or as close to it as I can) and leaving no uneven space...

Like a keypad on a telephone that you can align to the client but with more buttons.

Can anyone suggest anything? I use D6.

Thanks, Peter

.

- Follow-Ups:
 - ◆ Re: Buttons on a page
 - ◇ From: alanglloyd@xxxxxxx
 - ◆ Re: Buttons on a page
 - ◇ From: Andreas Koch
 - ◆ Re: Buttons on a page
 - ◇ From: Rob Kennedy
- Prev by Date: DISPLAY OF FORMS
- Next by Date: Re: Programming with COM port
- Previous by thread: DISPLAY OF FORMS
- Next by thread: Re: Buttons on a page
- Index(es):
 - ◆ Date
 - ◆ Thread