

Re: C vs C++ in Embedded Systems?

Source: <http://coding.derkeiler.com/Archive/General/comp.arch.embedded/2005-01/2305.html>

From: Steve at fivetrees (steve_at_NOSPAMTAfivetrees.com)

Date: 01/29/05

Date: Sat, 29 Jan 2005 04:47:43 -0000

"Antti Keskinen" <antti.keskinen@REMOVE.koti.luukku.com> wrote in message news:cteabq$1140$1@news.cc.tut.fi...

> C is more popular and more 'streamlined' (doesn't contain anything fancy) > for smaller embedded systems. It can't be used for true object-oriented > programming, but who needs OO on 8-bit processors ?

I disagree. I consider OO at least as much a design technique as a language feature.

I agreed with the rest of your post, though ;).

Steve

<http://www.fivetrees.com>