

Re: How to call

Source: <http://coding.derkeiler.com/Archive/General/comp.arch.embedded/2005-03/0782.html>

From: Anton Erasmus (nobody_at_spam.prevent.net)

Date: 03/13/05

Date: Sun, 13 Mar 2005 14:33:22 +0200

On 12 Mar 2005 03:37:38 -0800, "Prem" <prem.sivasamy@gmail.com> wrote:

>Hi,

>Just curious..I have experience in 8051, how should I put me as >experience in real time system or embedded system or both.

>Thanks

>PS

No, One can arguably write a "Real Time" application on a standard PC.

One can also write a non "Real Time" application on a 8051.

Writing code for a 8051, can be defined as writing embedded code.

If you have written a "Real Time" control application for a 8051 system, you can say that you have experience in "Real Time" systems, and embedded systems.

Regards

Anton Erasmus