

Re: USB Host & PDA

Source: <http://coding.derkeiler.com/Archive/General/comp.arch.embedded/2005-04/msg00638.html>

- From: Hans-Bernhard Broeker <broeker@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: 22 Apr 2005 11:29:36 GMT
-

juky <juklingos@xxxxxxxxxx> wrote:

> I have a PDA Ipaq 4150 and I want to connect to an external homemade > device which has USB interface. It seems that my PDA does not support > USB host.

Well, you had better thought of that before deciding on USB, of all things, as the protocol for that communication, hadn't you?

> Is there any trick to work around this problem ?

"Trick"? No. USB is either there, or it's not. You may manage to find a USB bus controller with an interface your PDA does support, but that's not a trick --- that's avoiding the problem.

> I need to write an application for pocket pc 2003 that control my > device by sending/receiving some bytes.

Need? Why?

--

Hans-Bernhard Broeker (broeker@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx)
Even if all the snow were burnt, ashes would remain.

• References:

- ◆ USB Host & PDA
◇ From: juky

- Prev by Date: Re: transferring binary file using hyperterminal
- Next by Date: Re: Initialize the Task Control Block
- Previous by thread: Re: USB Host & PDA
- Next by thread: Re: USB Host & PDA
- Index(es):
 - ◆ Date
 - ◆ Thread