

Re: What happened? My "https applets" stopped working

Source: <http://coding.derkeiler.com/Archive/Java/comp.lang.java.help/2005-01/0799.html>

From: Roland (roland_at_phony.biz)

Date: 01/22/05

Date: Sat, 22 Jan 2005 14:38:12 +0100

On 22-1-2005 13:37, SD wrote:

- > What's a weekend? (just kidding -- kind of...)
- >
- > Ok here is the situation. They don't work in either browser, Netscape or IE.
- > Both the latest.
- >
- > The URL would involve giving you my real estate password and my ebay password.
- > But they do work in my partner's browsers.
- > So it only on https sites that tit happens. REgular Java apps seem to be
- > working. Like the test games at the Java site. I guess that counts.
- > what did I do before the screw up?
- > I did 3 things that I can remember. I had installed Adaware. I upgraded the
- > eBay toolbar (they kept bugging me to!). I also installed Webroot's
- > Spysweeper..
- > I install thngs all the time so I didnt think it would mess up the JAva.

Have Adaware myself (AFAIK, it doesn't interfere with Java). Don't know the other two. But they should not mess up Java...

- > I must
- > have been nuts.

You're saying it, not me ;-)

- > So I uninstalled each thing and rebooted. I made sure no pop-up blockers were
- > on. they never are on, I don't use them bedcaSue of stuff like this. I also
- > don't go to wierd cites though. None of this ehelpe. I did a system restore.
- > That didn't help either. I just tried to do an ealier system restore and it
- > didn't even taek. dumped Ll my sites with rules on them in IE and set it to
- > dfault. That didn't hlep either. I set it to the losest security and privacy
- > and took off the Xp firwall and that didn't help either. I never had to set a
- > proxy before and I kind of know what it is, but since it all worked without me
- > typing things in before, I was thinking it shold keep on working. I must be
- > mad. I can work around one of the applets, and not see wht I'm posting to
- > Ebayj,