

Re: eclipse – doing multiple tasks?

Source: <http://coding.derkeiler.com/Archive/Java/comp.lang.java.programmer/2003-10/1593.html>

From: Alex Hunsley (lard_at_tardis.ed.ac.molar.uk)

Date: 10/17/03

Date: Fri, 17 Oct 2003 15:53:44 +0100

Alex Hunsley wrote:

> Michael Borgwardt wrote:

>

>> Alex Hunsley wrote:

>>

>>> I've justed started looking at eclipse and it seems very good.

>>> I like the automatically generated tasks like fixing imports. Is it >>> possible to select a load of these and tell it to do them all, however?

>>

>>

>>

>> In general: No, because they cannot necessarily be fixed automatically.

>> For your specific problem of fixing imports, however, you can select a >> whole package/directory in the tree view and select Source->Organize

>> Imports,

>> and it will process all the classes inside.

>>

> Ah thanks for this!

> Unfortunately, the organise imports seems to be broken!

> There are quite a few files that now look like this:

>

> package [... whatever]

>

> import [...whatever]

> import [...whatever]

>

> ng = false;

>

>

>

> .. and obviously the compiler trips up on the "ng = false;" – eclipse > has removed some chars from the front of this line!

> Does anyone know anything about this weird behaviour?

>

> alex

comp.lang.java.programmer: Re: eclipse – doing multiple tasks?

extra info: it only seems to break when I do CTRL+SHIFT+O on a package, never when I organise imports on a single file.

alex