Hey Dude,

It works!!! Thanks a ton man. Its a big relief. Owe u one. :-). Btw, does this have something to do with a certain wormBrontok.c? I ran an antivirus check after getting this message using AVG. AVG detected wormBrontok.c as a virus but was not able to heal it.

Ok, I'm writing the instructions now but note: Follow exactly what's written here and in the same sequence. Also when you open your registry, please be careful not to mess it up or your laptop's dead!

Procedure:

1. Press CTRL+ALT+DEL and go to the processes tab
2. Look for svchost.exe under the image name. There will be many but look for the ones which have your username under the username
3. Press DEL to kill these files. It will give you a warning, Press Yes
4. Repeat for more svchost.exe files with your username and repeat. Do not kill svchost.exe with system, local service or network service!
5. Now open My Computer
In the address bar, type "C:\heap41a" and press enter
6. Delete all the files here
7. Now go to start -> Run and type "Regedit"
8. Go to the menu EDIT --> FIND
9. Type "heap41a" here and press enter
You will get something like this "[winlogon] C:\heap41a\svchost.exe C:\heap(some number)\std.txt
"Press DEL. It will ask "Are you sure you wanna delete this value", click "Yes"
Now close the registry editor

BANG! Virus is Gone!

Note: Please format all your pen drives because the virus is in that hidden in an microsoft.exe autorun.inf which you might not find. Else you might have to repeat all this everytime!

By the way: Now that you're here you can check the products page of the website and check out Agloco, TIB and mGinger. Register yourself for free if you want, there's nothing to lose!

And another suggestion install a kaspersky antivirus in your system...

If you found all this useful you can thank me sometime ;-)
