I'm having problems debugging my code. One prevalent problem I have is that if I get a syntax error, and run it on localhost, I get nothing but a blank screen. No indication of what the error is. And, as you all know, it ain't easy going through a program looking for, say a colon that should have been a semicolon.

Is there something, somewhere, that I should have turned on to give me an error message?

Thanks....

Bruce
