

Re: Transaction Errors

Source: <http://coding.derkeiler.com/Archive/Perl/perl.dbi.users/2004-03/0323.html>

From: Mike Blezien (mickalo_at_frontiernet.net)

Date: 03/30/04

Date: Tue, 30 Mar 2004 14:18:08 -0600
To: Rudy Lippan <rlippan@remotelinux.com>

I think this maybe the problem,... I didn't realize that the DBI version was so old... this is on a client's server which I don't have root access too:

Versions:

DBI: - 1.14

DBD::mysql: - 2.0415

Does the DBI module need to be updated ??

TIA

```
--
Mike<mickalo>Blezien
=====
Thunder Rain Internet Publishing
Providing Internet Solutions that work!
http://www.thunder-rain.com
Quality Web Hosting
http://www.justlightening.net
MSN: mickalo@thunder-rain.com
=====
Rudy Lippan wrote:
> On Tue, 30 Mar 2004, Mike Blezien wrote:
>
>
>>Hello,
>>
>>I keep getting this error when attempting to utilize a database that has Innodb >>tables, and using transactions. This is from a Perl/DBI script too:
>>
>>Error:
>>Transactions not supported by database at module..... bla..bla
>>
>
>
> What version of DBD::mysql are you using?
>
>
>>MySQL Version: 4.0.17-standard - Official MySQL-standard binary >>and it has innodb enabled, the autocommit is set to 1 on the inital 'connect', >>no errors, then when the transaction is executed, the autocommit is set to 0 >>until the commit is called, of if an error occurs, the rollback is called.
>>
```

perl.dbi.users: Re: Transaction Errors

```
>>Is there something in the variables I can check to make sure transaction have >>been enabled for this particular database ??
>>
>
>
> You can use transactions with non-innodb tables, IIRC. You will just get > warnings on rollback.
>
>
> Rudy
>
>
>
```