

Re: What are the other options against Zope?

Source: <http://coding.derkeiler.com/Archive/Python/comp.lang.python/2005-07/msg00298.html>

- From: Florian Lindner <Florian.Lindner@xxxxxx>
 - Date: Sat, 02 Jul 2005 17:30:59 +0200
-

Peter Hansen wrote:

> godwin wrote:
>> I wanna thank Martin for helping out with my ignorance concerning >> execution of stored procedure with python. Now i have decided to write >> a web app that googles into my companies proprietary database.
>
> Just checking... do you really mean "googles", or is that in your mind a > synonym for "search"?
>
>> I need >> to know whether zope is good for that job.
>
> For which part of it? The web part, or the searching part? It's not > likely sufficient for the searching part, since it doesn't include > database interfaces other than to its own ZODB. What proprietary > database is involved?

That's not correct. Zope2 includes DB interfaces to MySQL, PostGre, ODBC and many others.

For Zope3 IIRC there are not yet so many interfaces.

Florian

- Follow-Ups:

- ◆ Re: What are the other options against Zope?
◇ From: Peter Hansen

- References:

- ◆ What are the other options against Zope?
◇ From: godwin
- ◆ Re: What are the other options against Zope?
◇ From: Peter Hansen

- Prev by Date: Re: Proposal: reducing self.x=x; self.y=y; self.z=z boilerplate code
- Next by Date: Re: Re:

Re: What are the other options against Zope?

- Previous by thread: Re: What are the other options against Zope?
- Next by thread: Re: What are the other options against Zope?
- Index(es):
 - ◆ Date
 - ◆ Thread