Please tell me if there's a better group to post this in--

I've been trying to get a MoinMoin installation up-and-running for the last two days. I've installed the latest MoinMoin version, mod_python (v. 2.3.4) is running, using Apache on a White Box Enterprise Linux VPS installation.

So the basic MoinMoin install looks good--I can import it into Python no problem. It's when I create a Wiki and run the test page that I get problems. Here's a snippet from the test page (mywiki?action=test):

Problem getting MoinMoin going with the extended error looking like this:

ERROR: testSyntaxReference
(MoinMoin._tests.test_formatter.FormatterTestCase)
-----

Traceback (most recent call last):

[...]

TypeError: cannot deepcopy this pattern object

I'm guessing that this all has something to do with the last line (here's a heads-up: I know nothing about Python), but googling it doesn't turn up anything useful. Trust me, I have scoured the moinmoin site looking for a hint, nothing doing.

And also, I installed this all to the letter. I've read the install instructions many times, and even uninstalled and reinstalled the wiki instance twice.

I'm really pulling my hair out here, and would appreciate any help.

Thanks, Walter
